SOMETHING NEW AND VALUABLE.

The most powerful King on the face of the globe now regains supreme in the American Republic. The power of the crowned heads of Europe sink into insignificance
when compared to that of our American King.
European Kings employ the power vested in them to increase the riches of the rich and lordly, and to reduce to greater misery and degradation, the poor and dependent. Our American King gives forth with equal willingness to the lordly nation and humble citizen, relief from all afflictions, and to the rich and the poor, happiness to the body and health to the soul.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE.

WILL OPEN ON THE

3D MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER NEXT.

N. B. WALLER, A. M., Principal.

THE services of Mr. WALLER have been permanently secured. He brings with him a reputation as an accomplished and successful instructor of youth, and the belief that no institution can surpass this in all that is necessary to prepare young men for College most thoroughly or to lay the foundation for a substantial and well ordered education.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, KENTUCKY.

THIS Institution occupies a high rank
among Western Colleges. Its Library, Cabinet, Museum, and apparatus are unsurpassed. Its literary course is the same as that of Yale College, while its scientific course embraces all the best portions of the course at West Point.

For young men designed for practical business there is a course of three years in which a thorough knowledge is imparted in agriculture, Chemistry, Physiology, Zoology, Fecultural Engineering, Principles of Commerce, and Book Keeping. In this practical feature the College is believed to be unequalled. Its high aim is to furnish American scholars, and American business men. The rapidly increasing number of Students in attendance is proof of its high rank and efficiency.

This seat of learning is no mere experiment,
whose permanence is doubtful, and whose disposition is therefore uncertain. It is in a position to exercise and maintain a wholesome discipline without the fear of extinguishment; and to require of its students every thing scholarly and manly in their deportment.
It has boarding arrangements adapted to all classes of students; and so adjusted as to avoid the dangers inseparable from the practice of crowding 150 or 200 young men into one building. Students for the ministry can be prepared for about $40 per College year.
Others of known good moral habits, for about $65 or 70; while those who may prefer boarding in private families can do so at from $30 to 100. No student is allowed to board in any family but such as the Faculty shall approve;
and a strict and kind supervision is exercised by the faculty over every student wherever he may board.

The scholastic year is divided into two sessions. The first commences on the third Monday in September; the second, on the first Monday in February.

COMMENCEMENT DAY

Occurs on the last Thursday in June. Tuition $20 per session.

The annual catalogue may be had by application to the President, Rev. D. R. Campbell L. L. D. S. F. GANO.

CAN BE EFFECTUALLY CURED BY

DR. HOOFLAND'S

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS.

PREPARED BY

DR. C. M. JACKSON,

No. 120 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not exceeded, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest,
in many cases after skillful physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Incessant great strength, the rectification of diseases of the Liver and Gallbladder, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are, withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

H. W. Chaney, Millersburg, Ky., Oct. 16, 1852, said: "Having sold your Bitters some time, I find it has given satisfaction in every instance that has come under my notice."

Nelson & Edwards, Salina, Ky., June 21, 1851, said: "We rejoice to inform you that this justly celebrated medicine has fully maintained the exalted reputation which has been giving it, and having tested its virtues we unhesitatingly say it is a most valuable medicine."

J. T. & J. W. Berry, Uniontown, Ky., July 21, 1852, said: "We have heard of many cures performed by the use of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, and believe it to be a valuable medicine."

J. Grant Irvine, Ky., June 26, 52, said:
"We have succeeded in introducing your Hoofland Bitters, physicians and others purchase them by the half dozen and dozen."

Dr. P. Fatio & Bro., Knoxville, Tenn., April 9, 1851, said: "Your Bitters are giving us very fast, and every person that has used it, so far as we have been able to learn,
has been benefited."

These Bitters are ENTIRELY VEGETABLE, they invigorate and strengthen the system, never produce ill, and can be used for infants as well as adults.

THE IMPORTED BULL

PATHFINDER

WILL be permitted to serve a few fine
cows with calf.

Not more than ten cows can be received before the first of July, as his engagements are nearly complete up to that time.

In offering the services of this bull to the breeders of fine blooded Cattle, we invite their most critical attention to his pedigree, as being if not unequalled, certainly unsurpassed in the variety and purity of its crosses, by that of any animal ever imported into America.

His pedigree on the dam's side will be found in the Kentucky Cultivator.

The pedigrees of his sires are much too long for insertion in any public print. We will therefore only state now, that among his most immediate Grandfathers in the Herd Book, are to be found the names of such bulls, as Buchan Bulls (3238), Sir Thomas Fairfax
(3196), Norfolk (3277) & Bates' second Hubs back (1423), through whom he descends in direct line from Mr. Bates' celebrated Cows Duchess Ist, the great original of what is known as the "Duchess strain" of short horns.

The Bulls named above were all winners of prizes in England and accurate Engravings of the first three are given in the Herd Book,
from which breeders may determine accurately
the merits and demerits of this strain of stock.

The pedigree of Pathfinder is peculiarly exempt from the evils of too close breeding, indeed no "in and in" cross can be found in it, and we therefore have every reason to anticipate vigor of constitution and symmetry of form in his calves.

Cows sent from a distance will receive
every attention, but we will incur no liability
for accidents.

AFTER MY THANKS TO

the public for the very liberal patronage with which they have favored me, I would now inform them that I have a fine stock on hand and will be receiving, from the East, additions to it during the entire season; all of which I will sell out the most accommodation terms, and as it is my fixed determination to quit the business, I am satisfied that those wanting any thing in my line will find it to their interest to give me a call.

A. W. FORD OOD.

I will also sell on good terms, two dwellings
my Coach Factory, and Two Shops appropriate. I deem it unnecessary to give a description of the property as those wanting will examine for themselves. It is one of the best stands in the State for a Carriage Maker.
I should be glad to show the above property
to any one who may call.

railroad station, and when the steam whistle screams you and I will be on the way to get the knot tied, that will make us one forever, and let the future take care of itself—I'm no croaker. I will meet you this afternoon near the pond,
about five o'clock. Adieu, dearest Effie,
"HARRY."

After the interview with her daughter,
Mrs. Grant pondered upon the subject,
and resolved as tyranny is said to provoke rashness, she would treat Effie with uncommon tenderness. She therefore procured for her the nicest apparel; loaded her with gewgaws, chatted with her most freely, encouraged her visiting in high circles; and vainly thought she had excluded all her misdirected attachment,
and upon the eventful day she was missing, congratulated her father that Effie was a devoted obedient child who had struggled against many youthful indiscretions, and was entitled to much credit for so doing. In about half an hour after, she found the following note lying upon her work-table, directed:

"To my Mother:—I shall not return home very soon again. I am going to take a short excursion with a friend into the country. Do not be alarmed—the less you say about me the better—but when I return Effie Grant may legally claim the name of Brown. Poor father need not run distracted, it is all for love.
"EFFIE."

There was a stricken household that day. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Grant tasted of food, nor was seen abroad. It was too late to hope to remedy youthful indiscretion, and with saddened hearts they sought to struggle against what they could not help. But how the fond parents lamented that they had held the reins of parental government with so silken cords,
that they had permitted their cherished
child to be brought out so early in society, that they had allowed young gentlemen to so freely mingle with their daughter, in fine, that they did not foresee in season to prevent such sad consequences—
all this bitter experience may be a help to others, but it was entirely too late to be made available to themselves! The bitterest kind of bereavement had struck down their hearts, but it did not so utterly subdue their erring child when she returned as the wife of Harry Brown.

They did, however, keep advised of her welfare, and, mortifying as was the knowledge, yet they kept aloof from their daughter's society, and heard of her as situated in the most humble quarters, at board with the mother of her husband, and willing that she should reap the consequences of so reckless an act, they suffered her to remain there unvisited by them. But who can tell what a painful struggle was going on in those crushed and bleeding hearts! How often would that mother have received back her prodigal child! How warmly would she have embraced her, when the maternal instinct reigned paramount. But she was wisely kept in check by the cool, decided firmness of her husband's judgment, and she dared not reveal the depth of her emotions. It takes time to mitigate all our heaviest calamities, to subdue youthful indiscretions, to humble false pride and to show a true penitence.

But let Effie tell the tale herself. The letter was addressed to "Paul Grant."
Let us hear its contents.

"DEAR MOTHER:—Because you are my real mother, I have the courage to address
you. I feel you will not turn deaf ear to your repentant child,—although so wayward and perverse I have been, that it really quite unfit me for any hope of obtaining your forgiveness when I go over the retrospect of the past. But I can bear no longer with my own folly. As much as I disregarded your friendly warning,
as a rash and precipitate, as was my action, yet you never portrayed half the suffering it has occasioned me. For a day or two, I was bewildered with the strange, giddy excitement of being married; I felt
you would oppose what I then conceived was essential to my happiness, and really proposed, myself, a clandestine marriage.
I tell you this to mitigate your feelings of asperity toward Henry, who has been to me all that such a youthful, inexperienced husband could be expected to prove.
But mama, we are poor—dreadfully poor.
I have sold my diamond ring to enable us to live, and then such a little! Why Mrs. Brown is constantly taunting Henry with bringing a wife for her to support and his poor invalid sister coughs and sneezes and inquires of me more than fifty times a week, why I do not go home and live with my rich parents? I can endure it no longer, and mortifying to relate this,
I feel as if the trial is not greater than living as I do at present.

"Dear mother, may I return to you and bring Harry? I have not told you the worst—since our marriage, the firm who employed Mr. Brown have discharged him, and he has at present no employment. I am so fearful he may be led into temptation, for I find he has a taste
for exciting pleasures, that I thought I would ask your forgiveness for the past,
with weeping eyes and a stricken, penitent
heart.

"Still your own

EFFIE."

Not many paternal hearts could withstand such an appeal, and when Mr.
and Mrs. Grant read and re-read the epistle from their child their first impulse was to receive her with open arms, but a more mature judgment convinced them that such a course would be unwise for when their necessities were relieved, pur-chance the repentant spirit would be annihilated. With cool deliberation therefore, Mr. Grant has addressed his daughter:

"MY DEAR CHILD:—The rash act
which you committed is now justly visited upon you. It is right that you should keenly feel such a disobedient course, for not a lone upon your self did the heavy burden fall, but you have caused your parents the deepest anguish which it has ever fallen to their lot to experience. Grant no other household my ever know such blighted hopes, or feel such a visitation which a family is bereaved!

"We cannot, however, receive you back to our embraces, but I shall put in trust for the payment of your board, enough to render you comfortable in another dwelling. Harry Brown must look out for himself. YOUR FATHER."

"Mother's P.S. Effie, I will call and see you to-morrow morning. Your Mother."

How the mother and daughter met we will not record. It was such an interview as we would never witness. But the future career of the young couple has not yet closed, for we have detached paragraphs from Effie's notebook, which runs thus:

"To-day is the anniversary of my marriage—commemorated by sighs and vain regrets, the result of my own folly is indeed a mournful page in my history! A wife and mother—yet scarce seventeen! A husband in Australia, and my very girlhood sacrificed by one rash act; would that my history might be so indelibly recorded, that all such blind passion and foolish excess might be forever unrecorded in future inexperienced hearts."

Again:

"Father has been to see me to-day—that care-worn brow, that deep melancholy that settles upon his features is traceable to my folly. Would that with one heavy mark I could blot out my past errors, and become reinstated as Effie Grant. Harry is in a sad way—I saw it before he left the country—he was intemperate, loved to be called a high blood; played at fearful hazards, writes I must give him up forever—but this new bond in little Effie—"

"How I desire to warn all youthful admirers who are thrown into the vortex of temptation, of their danger, to tell them the folly of flirting. 'Gracious Heaven! Is it possible I am a widow—and not eighteen years of age! My mirror gives me many indications of the folly of a wasted youth. And now I am to return to the kind embraces of my parents, and once more safely lodged beneath the parental roof, may I prove what I have never been a trusting, devoted, affectionate daughter. They forgive me all, and take my child as their own.'"

The mournful part of Mrs. Brown's history is here concluded, and at the age of twenty-two, she was re-married to a gentleman of fortune and literary eminence, one who took a high stand in society. His wife, who had been thus severely tried and chastened, was ever after distinguished for the sweetness of her disposition, and the mild exhibition of the Christian graces. She adorned every circle she entered, was the idol of her husband and the solace of the declining years of her parents; but her youthful indiscretions always imprinted a sadness upon her countenance, which gave a melancholy interest to her pleasing, unobtrusive manners, and we cannot doubt but the deep penitence she evinced for early disobedience was washed away by the recording angel who waits for and accepts the tear of contrition, before he enters upon the book of remembrance, the record of early transgression.

From the Greenupburg (Ky.) Record.
An Exciting Trial.

Our little town was thrown into a state of excitement on Monday evening, from the arrest of JEFF. EVANS, a prominent lawyer of the Greenup bar, under a warrant of grand larceny. The accused was taken, soon after his arrest, before Judge Bryan and C. S. Guilkey, Esq., for examination. The Commonwealth was represented by Geo. B. Roe, Esq., and the accused, by his counsel, objected to C. S. Guilkey, as a member of the Court, on personal consideration. He was therefor notified that Esqs. Reese and Womack were in town, to both of whom he objected on the ground that they were in town when the arrest was made and probably partook of the excitement against him. The counsel for accused then asked for time until Tuesday morning to prepare for trial, which was granted. On Tuesday morning, June 6th, the accused was taken before Judge Bryan and H. A. Mead, Esq. The parties having announced that they were ready the Court proceeded with the examination. The Commonwealth produced her warrant which was examined by the counsel for the accused, and objected to it as imperfect, but they waived all objections to the warrant and proceeded with the case. The witnesses on the part of the Commonwealth were Cyrus Van Bibber, Jr., Marshal Baker, Timothy Clary, William Pearce and Jos. M. Robb, who were sworn. It was proven on the trial that Timothy Clary had used his pocket book, containing about one hundred and twenty-five dollars, that while using it to get some papers, he laid it down by him on a bench in the court house, and then got up and left the pocket book and went out of the court-house. The accused, soon after Clary left, went to the bench and sat down upon the pocket book; soon after sitting down on it he leaned over so as to admit his hand under him sufficiently to take hold of the pocket book which he drew out and placed in his pocket. The accused then walked up stairs, followed by witness Van Bibber, (who had witnessed the taking of the pocket book) who saw him go into the ante and Lodge rooms of the Masonic Hall, closing the door of the Lodge Room after him. In a short time accused came out of the Lodge room and went into the Clerk's office and sat down near witness Robb and entered into a conversation with him. Witness Van Bibber went to Clary and asked him if he had lost his pocket-book. Clary after an examination said he had lost it. Van Bibber then told him he had seen accused take it. Clary immediately went to the clerk's office where accused was still engaged in conversation with Robb, and asked Robb if he had seen a lost pocket book. Robb answered no, but got up and made a thorough search on the floor and tables of the office, and it not being found, Clary then asked accused if he had seen or heard anything of a lost pocket book? Accused made no reply at all. Clary then went out of the office and gave witness Robb a sign to follow him and then told Robb what Van Bibber had told him. Clary, requested Robb to watch accused until he brought an officer. The Sheriff Van Bibber soon came and arrested the accused and placed him under guard. Search was then instituted and the pocket book found secreted in the Lodge room, but on examination it only contained fifty-one dollars and seventy-five cents. After the postponement of the trial on Monday the accused was searched and only twenty-five cents in money was found on his person.

A pocket book was found on him which very much resembled the one belonging to Clary. The guards who had accused under their care, and part of whom were present when he was arrested, testified that they saw the accused in possession of no money except a twenty-five cent piece nor did they see him make way with any. This being in substance the evidence introduced by both parties, George F. Roe, Esq., on the part of the prosecution, arose and addressed the Court in a feeling, eloquent and able speech, during which he read to the Court the authorities upon which the prosecution relied.

Mr. Roe was followed by E. F. Dulin, L. D. Ross and Jesse Corum, Esqs., on part of the defence, who with all their learning and skill labored for the accused. They rested the defense on this ground and this only viz. "that lost property cannot be the subject of larceny." And read to the court many authorities in support of their position. The accused, who has long been noted as one of the finest orators in the State, arose and addressed the Court in a speech of one hour and ten minutes, and if we were permitted to use the expression we would say "he spoke as never man spoke."

The accused also relied on the same defense that his counsel had adopted. Mr. Roe then made his closing speech for the prosecution, and the Court took the case and after advisement discharged the accused.

This ended one of the most remarkable cases which has ever occurred in any Court of Greenup County—remarkable on account of the high position and connection of the accused—remarkable on account of the excitement produced by it—and peculiarly remarkable on account of defence relied on the Counsel and accused for his acquittal.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.
HALL OF CARROLLTON LODGE NO. 134, CARROLLTON, June 16th, 1854.
TO THE PUBLIC.

On Sunday evening, the 11th inst., the corpse of our Brother, HENDERSO CLAXON, was conveyed to our town. He fell a victim to cholera while in command of the steamer J. G. Cline, bound for Louisville from St. Louis. It became the sad duty of this Lodge to perform the ceremony observed at the funerals of deceased members. The place of interment on the farm of Capt. Armstrong, about four miles below this town. No convenient mode of conveyance was at our command; which being announced to Capt. David, of the Wisconsin No. 2, he promptly replied that his boat was at our service, though he lost a trip by it. We availed ourselves of the kind offer. The Northern, Capt. Fuller, soon after the colors were concluded, hove in sight with colors at half-mast, and Arbogast's band of music aboard. We returned home on board of her. The boat ran a distance above the town, and dropped back to the wharf. Neither boat would receive compensation. A Brother acknowledged the kindness of Capt. Fuller, his officers, and members, Arbogast's band, is a neat and pertinent speech. The disinterestedness and courteous bearing of Captains David and Fuller, and their associates, and the kindness of Arbogast's Coronet Band, seemed a fit subject for this Lodge to acknowledge in a more public manner, and in pursuance of a resolution the undersigned committee tender to each of the gentlemen alluded to, the profound thanks of the Lodge and assurances of esteem.

WE CORRECT IT.—It is never our aim or inclination to do injustice to any one, and we would submit to almost any torture rather than wrong a meritorious gentleman. Hence, we confess that we were in error, two weeks ago, in attributing an act to JUDGE FINNELL, of Scott county, of which he was altogether innocent, as may be seen from the following paragraph from the Georgetown Herald, of the 15th.

We hasten to make the amende honorable, Brother French, and to thank you for having called our attention to it. Hope the Judge will pardon us for the error, as it was not intentional.—Flag.

WASHINGTON, June 20.
SENATE.—The Senate concluded after Mr. Seward had finished. Mr. Clay got the floor on the vetoed insane land bill. The subject was again postponed.

Mr. Benjamin reported a bill granting a register to the Russian-built brig Amelia, by name of Abbey Francis, which was passed.

The bill making provisions for paying all persons who since 1836 have acted as agents for paying pensions, and prescribing the manner for the settlement of their accounts hereafter, was taken up.

Mr. Toombs objected to the bill because it would leave all the deposit banks who paid pensions to set up claims.

Mr. Dodge moved an amendment—excepting banks, bank agents and officers, and private bankers from the benefits of the bill.

Mr. Hunter moved to lay it on the table, which was agreed to.

The House bills relating to the territories were received, taken up, and referred.

After a short executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The committee were discharged from the further consideration of the memorial contesting the right of Mike Walsh to a seat, on the ground that he is not an American by birth.

Mr. Hillyer introduced a bill fixing the first Monday in November for the meeting of Congress of the first Monday in December.

The rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

The House then adjourned.

WASHINGTON, June 21.
SENATE.—Mr. Seward, from the committee on commerce, made a report to the effect that the committee could not agree on the proposition of the construction of the Niagara ship canal. The committee asked to be discharged, which was agreed to.

Senator Hamlin of Maine, reported a bill, the object of which was the establishment of steamboat inspection distinct from the Pacific, and to suspend the provisions of existing steamboat act which made use of certain alloy in the construction of boilers.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to promote the efficiency of the Navy.

Upon motion of Senator Mallory, the bill was amended by striking out the appointment of midshipmen by members of Congress and the same establishment a new bureau. The bill was then passed.

The President's veto on the insane bill was then taken up.

The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted in favor of granting the usual per diem to John Snodgrass, deceased.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—SENATE.—Mr. Chase laid before the Senate a communication from the treasury, showing the expenses and receipts of the mint at Philadelphia since March 1853. Total expenditures $295,067 51, including repairs. Total account collected from deposits for coinage, 254 583 76.

The private Calender was taken up.

The bill for the relief of the brig Genl. Armstrong, captured by the British in the last war; rejected.

The Senate adjourned till Monday.

The House took up the private Calender and passed two bills.

The House adjourned for want of a quorum.

The Escape of Burns to be Averted.

Now that the fugitive slave, Anthony Burns, has been brought to Virginia, and all the diabolical schemes of the abolitionists have been thwarted, it becomes the people of Richmond to find out, if possible, the name of the vessel in which he was carried off, and the name of the captain who commanded her. We have no doubt, if Burns were approached in the proper manner, that he would give up this information. We could not, it is true, bring those who were guilty to any legal punishment on the testimony of a slave. But we could very effectually demonstrate to the captain of that vessel, that his room was much more desirable than his company in future—and that all further intercourse with this city would be profitless and useless. There is also a probability, if his name were known, that the testimony of a white man could be obtained, and that, after all, this worthy would be brought to his just deserts—viz: a set of rooms in Col. Morgan's house of private entertainment.

We suggest to those having charge of his slave, whether this might not be done. Let him be approached in such a manner as to draw from him the truth, and let us hear what vessel carried him off, what captain commanded her, and, above all, what abolition missionary instigated him to escape. Some rich developments may be made. Richmond has had recently several fresh importations from "Yankeeedom." They might have amused themselves in the intervals of business, with the delightful sport of instigating negroes to run off. Their names may be brought to light and the information might be of some service. It will take we opine, the loss of one or two hundred negroes to bring the people of this city to their senses in this matter—to teach them that nothing is gained by patronizing snuffing Yankee quacks and traveling adventurers. Still, the lesson, though it would cost a great deal, will be cheap.

the end, it is firmly impressed upon the people, and rigidly observed. Richmond is already contemptuously spoken of by many persons as a "Yankee city." Let us show that the epithet, if deserved heretofore, shall no longer be applicable.—[Richmond (Va.) Mail, June 14.]

A fine healthy infant boy was left a few mornings ago, by some person unknown, at the door of a poor Irish family in Frankfort, Ky. The infant was in a basket, accompanied by a liberal supply of good clothes, and a note saying that the child would be reclaimed hereafter and full compensation made for keeping it.

NEW BOOK.
HOME FOR THE MILLION! OR THE POOR MAN'S HOME AND RICH MAN'S PALACE; OR THE APPLICATION OF THE GRAVEL WALL CEMENT TO THE PURPOSES OF BUILDING.
BY GEORGE BARRETT.

Such is the title of a very neat pamphlet of sixty pages, gotten up by the publishing house of Applegate and Co., 43 Main street, Cincinnati.

This book is destined to revolutionize the entire method of building houses, to make every man his own architect, to secure every dwelling against the ravages of fire, water, and time; and to ensure a good comfortable house at less than one half the ordinary price of building.

The materials for the walls are simply gravel, or small stone, coarse sand and lime, which, when united, become in a short time as hard as common rock. And the ordinary skill of a common laborer is all that is needed to construct the finest house. From two to four men, with a cart and yoke of oxen, or one horse, a shovel, hammer, trowel and curbing are all that need be employed on a building of any size or form.

In every instance where this plan has been tried, it has given the most perfect satisfaction, both as to beauty of appearance and comfort.—In proof of this, the reader is referred to the splendid mansion of GEO. BARRETT, Esq., Spring Valley, Green county, Ohio. An illustration of which may be found opposite the title page in the book.

Let every man who expects to build a house at the smallest price, and one that will last for ages, get this wonderful book, and by reading it twice over, he may be prepared to build a house for himself, his wife, and as many little ones as he may have. It is bound in a short time to introduce a new era in house building both in town and country. It will learn you how to make houses, fences, and out buildings that will last while the world stands. By all means get this book.

We regret to learn that the residence of Mr. Will Emison, in the vicinity of the second toll gate on the Cincinnati pike, was destroyed by fire on Sunday last, while the family were at church. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. There was no insurance, and little if anything saved from the devouring flames; loss supposed to be from $1500 to $2000. Take warning, fellow citizens, by this unfortunate occurrence, and for a few dollars invested in some safe insurance company secure yourself against possible loss by accidental or incendiary kindled fires. Messrs P. L. Mitchell and W. C. White of Georgetown, are agents for reliable companies; and our country friends, who, in the event of a fire, are almost destitute of the means of extinguishing it, would do well to avail themselves of the protection afforded by insurance.

Another trial of the Board of Trustees vs. James Barkley came off last week, in which the jury hung, 5 for and 7 against conviction. In this trial, evidence was elicited from Mr. Hastings, which clearly proved the correctness of Judge Finnell's position, that a witness might know when the Judge did not, that a certain question, if answered, would criminate himself. At the instance of Mr. Barkley, and to avoid the horrors of an illegal imprisonment in the county jail, Mr. Hastings gave evidence which he had refused to give before, and which will probably lay him liable to an indictment by the Grand Jury. Fortunately for all parties concerned, as we conceive, on this occasion we were not called upon to testify with whom we had imbibed "the genial juice of corn," in the month of May! The result of this prosecution of the two hotels, by the Board of Trustees, and their facile and well paid agents, (who have suspended their futile and malicious suits,) reminds us that "the King of France, with 40,000 men, marched up the hill; and then—marched down again."

Reduction of Fare.
We notice by our exchanges that the Little Miami Railroad Company is now ticketing passengers through to Buffalo, via Columbus, Cleveland, and the Lake steamers, for the sum of four dollars.—Passengers are also ticketed over the same line to New York—all the way by Railroad to Buffalo—for eleven dollars and a half, and via the Hudson river for ten dollars and a half! Also to Boston, by Railroad from Buffalo, for the sum of fourteen dollars. From Louisville to New York, via the U. S. Mail Line to Cincinnati, for twelve dollars, thus making the aggregate expense of travel at something less than 1 1/3 cts per mile.

W. C. Lyle, Esq., proposes to retire from the editorial chair of the Paris Citizen on account of ill health; his share of that concern, with therefore, be for sale. We regret to lose so competent and courteous a contemporary from the ranks editorial.

GEORGETOWN GUARDS.

We were pleased and interested some days since, in noting the movements, &c. of a new Company lately organized, styled the GEORGETOWN GUARDS, and composed of some thirty fine young men mostly residents of the town; commanded by competent and intelligent officers, commissioned by the Governor, attached to the 12th Regiment 6th Brigade, Kentucky Militia.

We have understood that many of our merchants have been very liberal in making donations, but as the Company are not entirely supplied with the needful, room exists for all of a generous spirit to throw in their mite with advantage. "A word to the wise."

It is the intention of the Guards to celebrate the glorious Fourth in a becoming and appropriate manner; an oration to be delivered and a dinner given, whether by "mine, host" of the Franklin or by subscription we know not.

We annex the names of the officers in case there may be others wishing to join this fine corps of young men, to whom we wish success and happiness:

Light Literature.

"What forbidden to read those delightful Arabian Nights, and Robinson Crusoe?"

"Yes Father and Mother say that we must not read books that are not true; they will not let us read Novels or Poetry, poor Children—mistaken, not to say silly Parents."

There exists in this cold world of ours a class of cynical philosophers (?) who desiring to throw down all that breaths of poetry and of the imagination—all that is not of the (their) earth earthy, tell us that it is the height of folly to weep over fictitious sorrow—ridiculous to admire excellence which never existed, and altogether preposterous to allow our feelings to become excited, by the description of scenes, and actions, which have no being save in the brain of the poet and novelist.

After patiently listening to this view of the case, after granting that fiction is indeed fiction—a poem from beginning to end—fabulations all, of the imagination—yet if the sympathies which they have called forth, if the pure thoughts, the generous impulses, the warm affections, they aim at and far higher, and holier things, inspired by these "children of the imagination" be real—and if the mind be strengthened, and the heart warmed, and the thoughts purified, as they have been, and are, and will be forever more, by the high and holy and noble emanations of poetry and fiction such as Milton and Shakespeare, Cowper, Thompson, Dante, Spenser and a host of others penned—then it matters little in our opinion whether the ladder by which we ascend to heaven be upheld by props of reason or the hand of the poet.

But when we thus uphold the "realm by poet governed" we subsume to no false principle—worship at no false shrine, neither deify a fictitious goddess. Truth is as highly prized, as deeply valued by us in our intellectual requirements, as it is by the sternest realist; mawkish sentimentality, high heroics, and rhyme unwedded to reason—these are not poetry, and more than the trashy "yellow covered" literature are works of the imagination! true poetry must have its basis on truth! no man or woman ever was deeply moved, or had their sympathies truly enlisted in a work of the imagination—unless the thoughts, feelings and actions, calling forth those sympathies, were based on truth, and had nature for their counterpart! True there may exist no such beings as Mrs. Mortimer or Mr. Standish, Miss Lorimer, or Mr. Clement's but when we weep over the sorrows of the one, and despise the littleness of the other, when we laugh at the folly, and grieve for the weakness, and rejoice in the triumph, of these so called fictitious characters, we know that these things have been, and will be, and therefore that the springs whereby these beings of the fancy are made to "sport their hour on the stage" are the self same springs of action, by which we and our brother man, and sister woman, are actuated and impelled, and that though Mrs. Mortimer and Mr. Standish may be creatures of the imagination—Love, pride, jealousy, malice, envy and grief, all have a very real and passable existence.

So with Poetry—is not the world, this much abused world full of the beautiful things which constitute the very essence of poetry? Flowers those "sweet children of Mother Earth," Fountains and streamlets "making melodious murmurings," birds singing as they ascend to high heaven—Ocean in its majesty, Heaven in its sublimity, woman in her loveliness, and childhood in its innocent beauty—these things are they not instinct with the spirit of poetry? even though they be not "married to immortal verse," or dotted "in words that burn." Aye the world is full of poetry despite the scoffing of the Skeptic; there is poetry in the soft south wind, in the raging storm, in the anguish of a deep grief, in the depth and strength of the affections, in the earnest and holy aspirations for a better life—"Life is a poem, a grand poem, composed of many stanzas," says the poet, and we echo the sentiment, despite those cynics and would be philosophers, who themselves of the "earth earthy" cannot soar beyond the contracted space to which prejudice, bigotry and ignorance have bound them—men who see in the gorgeous coloring of Autumn leaves only the coming on of cold weather—who behold in the budding and blossoming of Spring's sweet flowers, but the prospect of peas beans and cabbage! Away with these children of the earth, and let us with the divine Milton exclaim, "In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is calm and pleasant, it were an injury and a sullensness against nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth."

FIRST FRUITS OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.—Dr. D. D. Owen, the State Geologist now engaged in making his first survey, has found between the mouth of Tradewater river and Anvil Rock, a distance of eight miles, eleven beds of coals, thick enough to be worked with advantage, and varying from 2 to 5 feet in thickness; also eleven other beds, varying from 4 inches to 2 feet. Dr. O. thinks, from indications he has seen, that there are probably six beds of coal, from 2½ to 5 feet thick, lying above the part of the coal measures he had examined.—The dip of the rock is from 3 to 5 degrees—2 to 3 inches to the yard; direction of prevalent dip, N. 25 to 30 degrees E. or N. E., and rise therefore S. W.

The order and thickness of the beds, beginning at Anvil Rock, some 8 miles above the mouth of Tradewater, and counting downward through the different strata are as follows:

- 1st. bed 4 feet.
- 2d. bed 3 feet.
- 3d. bed 5 feet; Mulford's main coal.
- 4th. bed 2 feet 6 inches; struck in Mulford's well.
- 5th. bed 3 feet; upper bed at Mulford's lower mines.
- 6th. bed 4 feet 2 inches; lower bed at same.
- 7th. bed 4 feet.
- 8th. bed 2 feet 6 inches; Ice House Hill.
- 9th. bed 4 feet; Bell's coal.
- 10th. bed 3 feet 6 inches; Cook's coal.
- 11th. bed 2 feet.

EXCITEMENT IN BEDFORD KY.—ESCAPE OF DELIA WEBSTER.—Miss Webster, as most of our readers know, was indicted some years ago in Fayette county, Ky., for stealing or abducting a number of slaves. She was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary of the State for a term of years, and was pardoned out by Governor Crittenden after she had served but a small portion of the time for which she was sentenced. Recently some of these old indictments have been revived, and a warrant was issued for the apprehension of Miss Webster, which was served, but the lady being very sick, could not be removed. Under these circumstances a guard of three men was appointed to remain, tend, and watch her. The guard slept at their posts or were careless, and Miss Webster escaped. It was rumored at Bedford on Tuesday, that a party of men had crossed the river from Madison, and released Miss Webster by force. The rumor caused great excitement in that place.

Dr. J. Philip Hobbs, of Memphis, has addressed a letter to the Mayor of Nashville, that by the use of cistern water entirely and exclusively, the cholera will disappear and never return. The doctor says this is known to him by analysis, and by an experience of twenty-four years. The editor of the Nashville Gazette says that from his own observation in 1849, when the cholera was in its worst stages, it was admitted by those best acquainted with the disease, that those who used rain water, where the disease was most prevalent, were free from it.

We understand that it is reported abroad, in the county and elsewhere, that we have had five or six cholera cases in town. There is no foundation in fact for this report; the only death that has occurred here, from any thing resembling cholera, was that of a negro who had taken an over dose of cherries, stones and all. The health of the town, otherwise is remarkably good; certainly in all its length and breadth we do not know of a single case of cholera; nor have we known of such a case in the town or within its vicinity, since the summer season commenced. Dame Rumor is a lying jaded

TURKEY FOOT.

On last Saturday, in company with an esteemed friend, we visited this remote portion of the county; where we found assembled about one hundred of "the bone and sinew" of the land. A magistrate's Court was in session; a meeting of the Masonic fraternity was convened, and several of the candidates for Judge and Sheriff, made brief but of course, eloquent speeches in support of their claims to the respective offices. All was harmony and good feeling, unmarred with disorder and confusion; indeed we have seldom seen so large a body of men together manifest so much of the true social feeling unaccompanied with dissipation and its concomitants; we made ourselves at home with the sovereigns & were treated with that manly courtesy and kindly warmth of hospitality so characteristic of the native born Kentuckian; hence we spent a most delightful day among the lofty hills and fertile fields of Old Scott. We were pleased to learn from intelligent and enterprising farmers, present, that the crops generally were in a very flourishing condition in that region of country, and that come what would, they would have a abundance of the substantial and some of the luxuries of life, for themselves, and also for their friends, towards whom, we have reason to believe, they are always "on hospitable thoughts intent."

Much interest was manifested by our friends in that vicinity, with regard to the liquor question which has been exciting our town for some time past; and considerable indignation was expressed by some at the action of the town authorities; our incarceration in the jail, for not turning informer, was denounced in unmeasured terms; one very intelligent and influential man, a warm advocate of temperance, informed us in a private conversation, that great injury had been done to the cause of temperance by the indiscreet course of its fanatical advocates in this quarter; that his own efforts and those of other good temperance men in his vicinity, had been in a measure paralyzed by the indignation excited in the public mind, upon the fact coming to their knowledge that free men were sent to prison by temperance fanatics for refusing to criminate themselves or make themselves odious by becoming common informers on their friends and associates.

Although an earnest and sincere advocate of temperance, he denounced the folly that would attempt to make free men sober, moral or religious by penal enactments; pointed out the injustice to town and country, in the persecution of the hotels, kept for public accommodation; and condemned in unmeasured terms the illegal imprisonment of those who refused to criminate themselves or inform against their friends. In conclusion he reiterated his opinion, founded upon experience and keen observation, that the fanatical course pursued by the temperance advocates in this quarter, had done great and irreparable injury to the cause of temperance in that section of the county; that even its most ardent advocates there, repudiated and would repudiate any and all efforts to place free white men upon the level of slaves! by dictating to them what they shall eat and what they shall drink, and wherewithal they shall be clothed! We need not add, that our interesting and intelligent friend, besides being an earnest and consistent advocate of temperance in all things, was a true blue Republican a Democrat in whom there is no guile!

Judge Fennell made a pertinent and practical speech of about an hour's length, which was listened to with undivided attention by the large and highly respectable audience then and there in attendance; we were given to understand, upon reliable and highly respectable authority, that his vote at the Turkey Foot precinct will at least be as two to one—probably more. He appears to be exceedingly popular with the masses; and his recent action with reference to the parties falsely imprisoned in the county jail, so far from setting him back with the generous, free hearted, whole souled yeomanry of Turkey Foot, is a feather in his cap; they go for him with a perfect vim! they believe that he has faithfully discharged the duties of his office, and are determined to endorse his belief with their votes.

As regards the candidates for Sheriff the matter is rather more doubtful. Messrs. Scruggs and Bradford were present and made a few remarks, but there was no very decided expression of opinion manifested, that we could discover. Glenn was not present, but we were led to believe that he was perhaps the favorite in that precinct; at any rate we were so informed. As regards the office of Jailor, Mr. Stevens, although not present, seemed to be the most popular in the crowd assembled on Saturday. We presume also, that our friend Edmonson, candidate for the Assessor's office, and a very clever gentleman withal, will readily command a majority of the votes of the frank and free hearted citizens of the Turkey Foot precinct.

We trust that these remarks, prompted by the kindest feelings towards those whose hospitality and friendship we enjoyed, will not be deemed invidious or unwarranted by any of them. We have the kindest feelings for all the candidates, and could wish that all of them might be successful in the race for official honors and emoluments; but we presume that all and each of them, would be better satisfied to know the true state of the game, than to be kept in doubt and darkness. And we know that our friends at Turkey Foot will acquit us of any wilful attempt to influence their decision in the approaching election; even if we were so silly as to make the attempt, we are well aware that it would be signally rebuked by the independent freemen of Turkey Foot. In noting the events of the day, and our observations thereupon, we have told, to the best of our knowledge, "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth;" "extenuating naught, nor setting down aught in malice;" true, there may be an honest difference of opinion upon some of the points; if so, and we have materially erred in our estimates in any respect we will cheerfully make the amende honorable provided the facts do not sustain us, and our reason is convinced of the error.

We understand that there is to be a splendid Pic Nic party given at Dudley Davis' in the White Sulphur precinct, on Saturday, the first of July. The Georgetown Guards and a numerous crowd of the fair and beautiful of this and adjoining counties are expected to be present, together with the numerous array of County Candidates. Judging from "note of preparation" the array of managers names, &c. we have no doubt that this Pic Nic will be the affair of the season. Should we receive an invitation, of which we entertain no doubt, we will doubtless be there to mingle in the merry measures of the dance; and no doubt "foot it on the high fantastic toe," with the "finest of the fair!"

APPOINTMENTS.

There will be a Burgoe for the candidates at the mouth of Long Lick Branch near Beatty's mill, on Thursday, the 29th inst. On Friday, the 30th, at Thomas Southard's on Caney. On Saturday, the first day of July, at Dudley Davis' in the White Sulphur precinct. On Saturday, the 8th of July at Squire John Lindsay's, on Eagle. At Oxford, a Burgoe on Thursday the 13th of July. On the 15th of July, a Burgoe at Squire John Jones, on Lytle's Fork. On Saturday, the 22d of July, a Burgoe at Turkey Foot.

The examinations of Georgetown College have been progressing during the current week—Thursday is Commencement day. We have been unable to attend from a pressure of other business, but a friend has kindly promised to furnish as a full report of proceedings in true for the next number of the Herald.

Editors should never be surprised or angered at any thing. We fear that our esteemed friend, the editor of the Louisville Journal is an exception to this wholesome rule. We have not received his journal in exchange for lot these three days, hence we presume he has got angry and stopped his paper because of the force of our "Middleton Brandy" squib! Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

DUELING AND HANGING.—Hanging has proved in one instance at least, a pretty effectual discouragement to the practice of duelling. In the Knickerbocker for April, published a few days since we find this paragraph, forming a part of the "Editor's Table":

The following account of The First and Last Duel in Illinois is from Ford's History of that State, just published by S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago. The year 1820 was signalized by the first and last duel which was ever fought in Illinois. This took place in Belleville, St. Clair county, between Alphonso Stewart and William Bennett two obscure men. The seconds had made it up to be a sham duel, to throw ridicule upon Bennett; the challenging party. Stewart was in the secret, but Bennett, his adversary, was left to believe it a reality. They were to fight with rifles; the guns were loaded with blank cartridges; and Bennett, somewhat suspecting a trick, rolled a ball into his gun without the knowledge of the seconds or of the other party. The word to fire was given, and Stewart fell mortally wounded. Bennett made his escape; but two years afterwards he was arrested in Arkansas, brought back to the State, indicted, tried, and convicted of murder. A great effort was made to secure his pardon; but Governor Bond would yield to no entreaties in his favor, and Bennett suffered the penalty of the law by hanging, in the presence of a great multitude of people. This was the first and last duel ever fought in the State by any of its citizens. The hanging of Bennett made duelling discreditable and unpopular, and the foundation for that abhorrence of the practice which has ever since been felt and expressed by the people of Illinois.

THE MAN WHO DARES TO DO RIGHT.—That man who can stand in the breach of public censure, with all the fashions of opinion, disgracing him in the thoughts of lookers-on—with the tide of obloquy beating against his breast, and the fingers of the mighty, combined many, pointing him to scorn—nay, with the fury of the drunken rabble threatening him instant death—and, worse than all, having no friend to whisper a word of defence or palliative in his behalf to the revilers—but bravely giving his naked head to the storm, because he knows himself to be virtuous in his purpose; that man shall come forth from the fiery ordeal like tried gold. Philosophy shall emblazon his name in the richest unison. History shall give him a place on her brightest page, and old, yea, hoary far off posterity shall remember him as of yesterday!

Our friend French of the Georgetown Herald has been in durance vile. It seems that the town authorities had him up as a witness, and requested him to say, on oath, whether he had drank liquor in a certain hotel in the city with any other person. French, not liking as an honorable man, to betray confidence reposed in him by gentlemen and at the same time criminate himself declined to answer the question in that form. The court insisted and French persisted in what he conceived to be his right, and in what he was advised, by counsel, was his right. He did not like to be placed in the attitude of an informer when the law did not compel him to be such. The court finally sent him to jail, and there kept him for a longer time than he had a right to do under the authority of the town charter, even if the imprisonment had been otherwise legal. He was finally released on habeas corpus.—Statesman.

COUNTERFEITS ON THE MANUFACTURES, and Farmers' Bank of Wheeling, of the denomination of $5, have just made their appearance in that town. They are badly executed, but may deceive the unwary.

The voters of the city of Louisville have decided against the erection of water works by the corporation, by a majority of nearly 500.

The Cholera in Shepherdsville

We have been furnished the following report of the deaths from cholera that have occurred in Shepherdsville, Bullitt county. It appears that the disease broke out in great violence on Thursday last. Since that time until Sunday evening 3 o'clock, say three days, the persons mentioned below have died:

- W. B. Holsclaw, aged 49 years.
- D. W. Holsclaw, son of W. B. Holsclaw, aged 20 years.
- B. Holsclaw, aged 19 years.
- Henry Holsclaw, son of W. B. Holsclaw, aged 12 years.
- Frederic Travis, aged 57 years.
- Jacob Troutman, aged 65 years.
- Thos. Jacobs, aged 10 years.
- E. Morthrop, aged 55.
- Son of Morthrop, aged 7.
- Mrs. Lyons, Irish woman not known.
- Jerry, (black man) property of John Ferguson, of Louisville.
- Julia, (black woman) belonging to G. W. Bowman.

In vicinity, M. Davidson, Jos. Kirtz, McConly, Jno. Quig, several not recollected.

Every case that occurred proved fatal until Sunday. Great praise is due Dr. Durbin of Louisville for his never failing cholera medicine.

SEVERE BUT INFALLIBLE.—The best remedy for a bone felon, says Dr. Lebaron, is to fill a thimble with soft soap and quick silver mixed, which is to be bound tightly over the sore. In twelve hours the core can be removed, then poultice to heal.

Mrs. Andrew, wife of Bishop Andrew, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South died in Oxford Ga., a few days since.

New York June 24.

The Steamer Illinois, from Aspinwall, with dates the 16th, arrived this morning, bringing the mails and a large amount of treasure. A dispatch from our commissioner at the Sandwich Islands has been received, and states that the government throws itself into the hands of the United States for protection from the French and all other foreign settlers. The commissioners accepted the Islands for the United States and gave assurance of protection to them.

The thermometer has got about as high as it can not be on a bust!

Provisions—Nothing doing.
Groceries—Unchanged.

IT CONSUMPTION AND SPITTING OF BLOOD.—See the certificate of Mr. Turner H. Ramsey, for many years proprietor of the Farm City Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., and late of the City Hotel, Richmond, Va.
Dr. John Minze, of the city of Richmond, though a regular physician, and of course opposed to what he called "quick medicines," was obliged to say that his good effects in the case of Mr. Ramsey, were wonderful indeed. He had been suffering for several years with the worst form of the quick medicine, and was on the verge of despairing when he was cured by the use of Dr. C. M. Jackson's Spanish Mixture.

We refer the public to his full and lengthy certificate around the bottle, stating his case. See advertisement.

June 8, 1854 13 41.

We seldom recommend a manufactured medicine, believing that in most cases, nature's own self perfects a cure more rapidly and effectually than can be accomplished by the vegetables and minerals of medical science. But in the matter of dyspepsia, there are chronic features about it, which very often defy all the efforts of nature to create a healthy action of the digestive organs, and it not infrequently happens that thousands suffer for years, diseased both in body and in mind, from indigestion and its kindred ills. To such Hood's's Garmen Bitters, Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, are truly a most valuable preparation. It is a tonic medicine, giving a healthy action to the stomach, and will be found highly serviceable at all seasons, but especially during the spring. Dyspepsia can only be cured by a patient perseverance and one course of treatment; and to all those suffering under this ailment we would recommend an application to the depot of Hood's's Garmen Bitters, 120 Arch street Philadelphia. Phil. Inq.

REVOLUTION IN TEXAS.

It will be remembered, that in the beginning of her revolution, in 1836, Texas offered large bounties in land to volunteers to serve in her armies. We can now offer, to the survivors, and heirs of those who thus served, the recovery of all the lands promised by the Government of Texas. We are also prepared to prosecute all Texas land claims regardless of date or character, whether State, Mexican, or American BOUNTY, SERVICE, or REWARD. Having complete access to the Muster rolls, Maps, Records, and other documents in the Public Office at Austin city, we enjoy superior advantages for investigations of all kinds in regard to claims. We will give particular attention to the recovery of LANDS illegally sold, for taxes or otherwise, and to estates which have suffered from inattention or mismanagement of agents or administrators. To persons having LAND CERTIFICATES for bounty, we can offer particular inducements. Our thorough and intimate knowledge of the vacant lands and surveys of the state, obtained from personal inspection, insures the most favorable locations, and perfect titles. LONG EXPERIENCE, and close attention to the LAND SYSTEM and all accurate knowledge of the different classes of titles, together with the large amount of land registered in our office for sale, enables us to furnish prompt and reliable information, and assistance to persons desiring good homes, and to afford superior advantages to those wishing to make SAFE and PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS. We are offering for SALE LANDS in every part of the state—Improved and unimproved, of every variety, and in tracts suitable for purchase as town lots, or in large tracts every kind of real estate on the most favorable terms. To persons having land in Texas for sale, and registered descriptions (furnished by the surveyor, or obtained by personal inspection) and full exhibits of title &c., of all tracts to be sold, thus furnishing a cheap and effective mode of disposing of them. If desired, we will examine land in any part of the state, ascertain its value, and report faithfully. Register for sale. We invite the attention of all persons desiring to dispose of their land as rapidly as possible, and to our office as a safe and effective mode of disposing of it. By activity, energy, and fidelity to the interests of our employers we hope to merit the confidence of the business public. Office on Congress Avenue. RAYMOND, FREEMAN & Co.

CHOLERA IN BOWLING GREEN.—The following reaches us in an extra of the Standard, dated on Tuesday.

BOWLING GREEN, June 20.
The cholera has made its appearance in our midst, in a most destructive form. Three persons, Miss Waltham, Mrs. Cole, and a negro woman, the property of W. L. Underwood, Esq., were attacked with this dreadful disease, at a late hour last Sunday night, and all died within the space of ten hours. On last night about 12 o'clock, a young lad by the name of John Beck, was attacked and survived only eight hours. There are now several doubtful cases in this place, among which is the husband of Mrs. Cole. The disease is of such a type as to baffle all medical skill. Our physicians and citizens generally deserve all praise for their unrelenting attention to the sick.

Many of our citizens have quit the place, and others are leaving. The weather is very hot, the thermometer standing at about 85.

We regret to inform our readers that there will be no paper issued from this office on next Saturday, in consequence of our hands leaving the establishment. They have, like many others left the place and gone to the country to get a little fresh air.

A susceptibility to delicate attention, a fine sense of the nameless and exquisite tenderness of manner and thought, constitute in the minds of its possessors the deepest undercurrent of life; the felt and treasured, but unseen and inexpressible richness of affection. It is rarely found in the characters of men, but it outweighs when it is, all grosser qualities. There are many who waste and lose affections by a neglect, and often unconscious neglect. It is not a plant to grow untended, the breath of indifference, or rude touch, may destroy forever its delicate texture. There is a daily attention to these light courtesies of life, which can alone preserve the first freshness of passion. The easy surprise of pleasure, earnest cheerfulness of assent to slight wishes, the habitual respect to opinions, the polite abstinence of personal topics on the company of others, unwavering attention to his and her comfort both abroad and at home, and above all, the careful preservation of those properties of conversation and manner which are sacred when before the world, are some of the secrets of that rare happiness which age and haught alike fail to impair or diminish.

ROMANCE OF A COAL FIELD.—The following singular circumstance happened a few years ago in Parr, about thirteen miles from Liverpool where there are several extensive collieries. An elderly widow lady sold to a gentleman some property, consisting of a house and about 30 acres of land, for £3,000. The old lady thought there must be coals under the land, as there is so much in the neighborhood; but it was the decided opinion of coal proprietors, and others conversant with coal mines that there were no coals on the property. The seller of the property, however, insisted that the coal should be reserved, unless the purchaser would give her £100 for them. This he refused doing, and the coals were accordingly, excepted from his purchase, and reserved to her. The old lady died soon after, bequeathing the coal mines among the children of a deceased sister, seven in number, who were all laborers, and the residue of her property, worth about £3,000, to the children of another sister. The bequest of the coal mines was considered a nominal thing, and the disquisitions in the two families were great on account of it. The coal legacies brooded for a length of time over their disappointment in not sharing their aunt's property with their cousins, but at length they contrived to induce some persons, who were supposed to have more money than them, to undertake the expense of boring on the land. The boring continued for some time, to the great amusement of persons connected with collieries but at last, to their astonishment, the chagrin of the purchaser, and the unbounded delight of the legatees, two barrels of the best coal in Lancashire were discovered, extending nearly the whole breadth of the land, and which could be easily worked. These coals were immediately purchased by the proprietors of a neighboring colliery for £2000. On subsequent borings, three lower levels were found which the same parties purchased for £15,000.

A fortune hunter being in a ball-room, bearded gentleman giving an account of the death of a rich old widow. "Died yesterday, in her eighty-ninth year," said the narrator. "What a pity!" exclaimed the fortune-hunter; "what a fine match she would have made two days ago."

The cholera is reported very bad at Hickman, Ky. In a population of 1,600 there were some six deaths a day about the 11th. The hotels were all closed and the citizens were rapidly deserting.

Second thoughts are the aptest child of experience.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

SAM KEENE is putting forth his Tobacco, emblazoned with high-sounding names, done up in sugar and labeled in gold.

Gentlemen, we have just received several varieties of the weed which we could very properly call the "Elley Elm," the "Sam Rainey," the "Lewis Telford," having been tested and approved by those gentlemen of acknowledged taste and refined sensibilities. As we think however, there is but little in a name, we offer the article upon its own merits.

LOWER MARKET HOUSE.

THE advertiser respectfully notifies the citizens of Georgetown, that owing to the scarcity of money, and the high price of stocks, he must adopt a cash system, and his business being limited, it is important to his business that this hint is not neglected, as he will be obliged to stop butchering if it is found it much more convenient to have the money paid at the Market House, than to spend the day after market is over in collecting so many small sums.

He would also inform the citizens of Scott county, that he will pay the cash for sheep skins delivered at his residence in Georgetown.

DESIRABLE TOWN PROPERTY

FOR SALE.

THE family residence of Dr. W. C. Webb, located on Hamilton street is offered for sale. It consists of a large and commodious dwelling containing 9 handsome rooms, besides an extensive store room, a good kitchen, Smoke house, ice house, &c., &c. Adjoining the dwelling are two convenient and roomy offices, adapted to the use of a lawyer or physician; there is also a

LOT AND STABLE

adjoining which might be obtained with the property, which is admirably adapted, in every respect for the residence of a professional man. The whole property is in a most excellent state of repair, having been cleaned and repainted during this spring. Its location, on one of the most pleasant streets of the town, its proximity to the business portion thereof, and its numerous conveniences and pleasant surroundings, render it one of the most

DESIRABLE RESIDENCES

in town. Those who have any wish to procure such a property, are invited to call and examine the premises. For terms, (which will be made easy) in the absence of Dr. Webb apply to Col. James Rankins, or at the residence, to READ THIS—MEDICINE FOR THE AFFLICTED.—DR. HALL, continuing to be consulted at his Office, No. 1 Union Block, West entrance, on all diseases of a PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. H. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHOEA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, impotence, Scrophulous, Gonorrhoea, Ulcers, pains and distresses in the regions of Procreation, Inflammation of Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Hemorrhoids, Prolapsus, Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of diseases, are made to become as harmless as the wind, afflicting a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Dr. H. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, uniting the unfortunate individual for either business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth are, weakness of the back and limbs, dizziness of the head, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, disipation, nervousness, derangement of the digestive functions, symptoms of consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating marriage consult a physician of experience and skill and be at once restored to health and happiness.

AGUE AND FEVER cured in 24 hours, warranted.

All letters addressed to Dr. L. Hall, box 1364, Cincinnati, O. Medicines sent to any address safely packed and secured from observation.

Office at No 1 Union Block, Third-street, bet. Sevanore and Broadway.

GEORGETOWN

FEMALE INSTITUTE.

The 3rd session will commence on Monday, Jan. 23.

THIS institution is provided with competent teachers in the several departments of Drawing and Painting (oil and water colors) Embroidery, French, Vocal music, Piano &c., as well as all the usual branches of a thorough English course. The number of instructors has been increased by the addition of an accomplished teacher from the East, whose services have been secured to commence with the session.

Miss Davis, who has succeeded so admirably in her department, during the past session, will continue to give lessons on the Piano. Mrs. Hand gives her personal attention to the school.

The large and elegant mansion with extensive and beautiful grounds recently purchased, furnish for the school one of the most delightful and healthy locations in the state—provided abundantly with the best of water, and retired from the noise and bustle of the street, with ample room for healthy and invigorating exercise, in the midst of the beautiful in art and the lovely in nature.

From a practical acquaintance with the various modes of instruction adopted by the best teachers in the East and West, and the success of eighteen years experience as an educator, the undersigned hopes, by untiring devotion to the school, to meet the educational wants of the community.
